

Hello,

If this merger goes through I have no plans to continue as a customer with ATT. I have been a Tmobile customer for almost a decade and left cingular when ATT started screwing with that company as well.

Seriously, look around. A company that is sinking, and buying other companies to run the bilge pump is not a good thing for our nation's wireless infrastructure. I won't be supporting them.

Give ATT to Tmobile and you'd actually see get what ATT is promising. Do it the other way around and you will see ATT tank (hopefully).

I hope the whole thing crumbles from a mass exodus of american customers that once again no one listened to.

My contract was up 3 years ago with tmobile and I have stayed because I love the way they treat their customers...so if this goes through I plan on showing my lack of support by leaving the same day.

Cheers to the sinking ship..

Sincerely,

James (a guy that needs to vote more)